Summer Games Overview

The Street Olympics is a non-profit organization that encompasses a network of recreational, educational and health programs primarily serving youth between the ages of 6 and 16. During the summer, Street Olympics programming is dedicated to the Summer Games, Discovery Camp, 3-on-3 Basketball, and Final Event. Each program is hosted by multiple youth agencies in neighborhoods across the county. From aspiring athletes to future environmentalists, the Street Olympics has something for everyone.

Who Benefits?

Our participants range in age from six to sixteen and come from predominantly underserved communities all over Harris County. The program is designed to go where kids are. Staff travels to sites in communities all over the county to engage in games with agencies and youth. Additionally, the aquatics program offers free swim lessons, and the Discovery Camp program offers field trips to their learning center cabin to learn about nature and protecting the environment. All of these activities are offered at no cost to youth or their families.

The goal is to provide quality programming to children and youth who do not have access due to location or cost. For over 35 years the Street Olympics has been providing quality programs all culminating in the Final Event which is an Olympic style competition between all of the participating agencies.

Finally, the program allows for job opportunities for undergraduate students over the summer. The focus is engaging college students interested in teaching, education, recreation and social work. They make up our workforce, many of which participated in the games themselves as youth.
